

SEXUALITY EDUCATION

ABOUT US

Mei is an organisation committed to empowering individuals through Comprehensive Sexuality Education and mental health support. Rooted in love and kindness, we work to challenge societal taboos and foster acceptance, awareness, and open dialogue. We aim to create informed communities where individuals feel confident and valued, free from stigma and fear.

OUR FOCUS AREAS

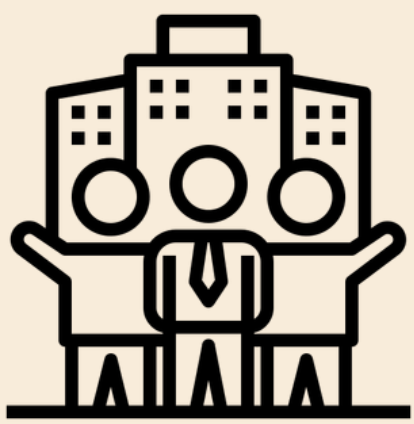

Schools:

We equip students with age-appropriate knowledge about their physical, mental, and social health, preparing them to make informed and healthy decisions.

Colleges:

For young adults navigating complex personal and social landscapes, we provide inclusive education and foster meaningful conversations to encourage self-awareness and mutual respect.

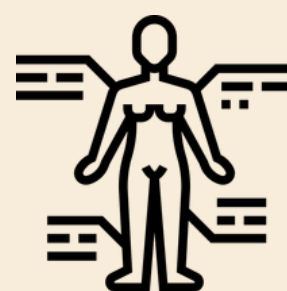

Corporates:

We help build healthier, inclusive workplaces by addressing critical topics like mental health, workplace relationships, and gender sensitivity, creating environments that thrive on understanding and collaboration.

OUR HOLISTIC APPROACH

Promoting Mental health, Emotional Intelligence, and Self-Awareness.

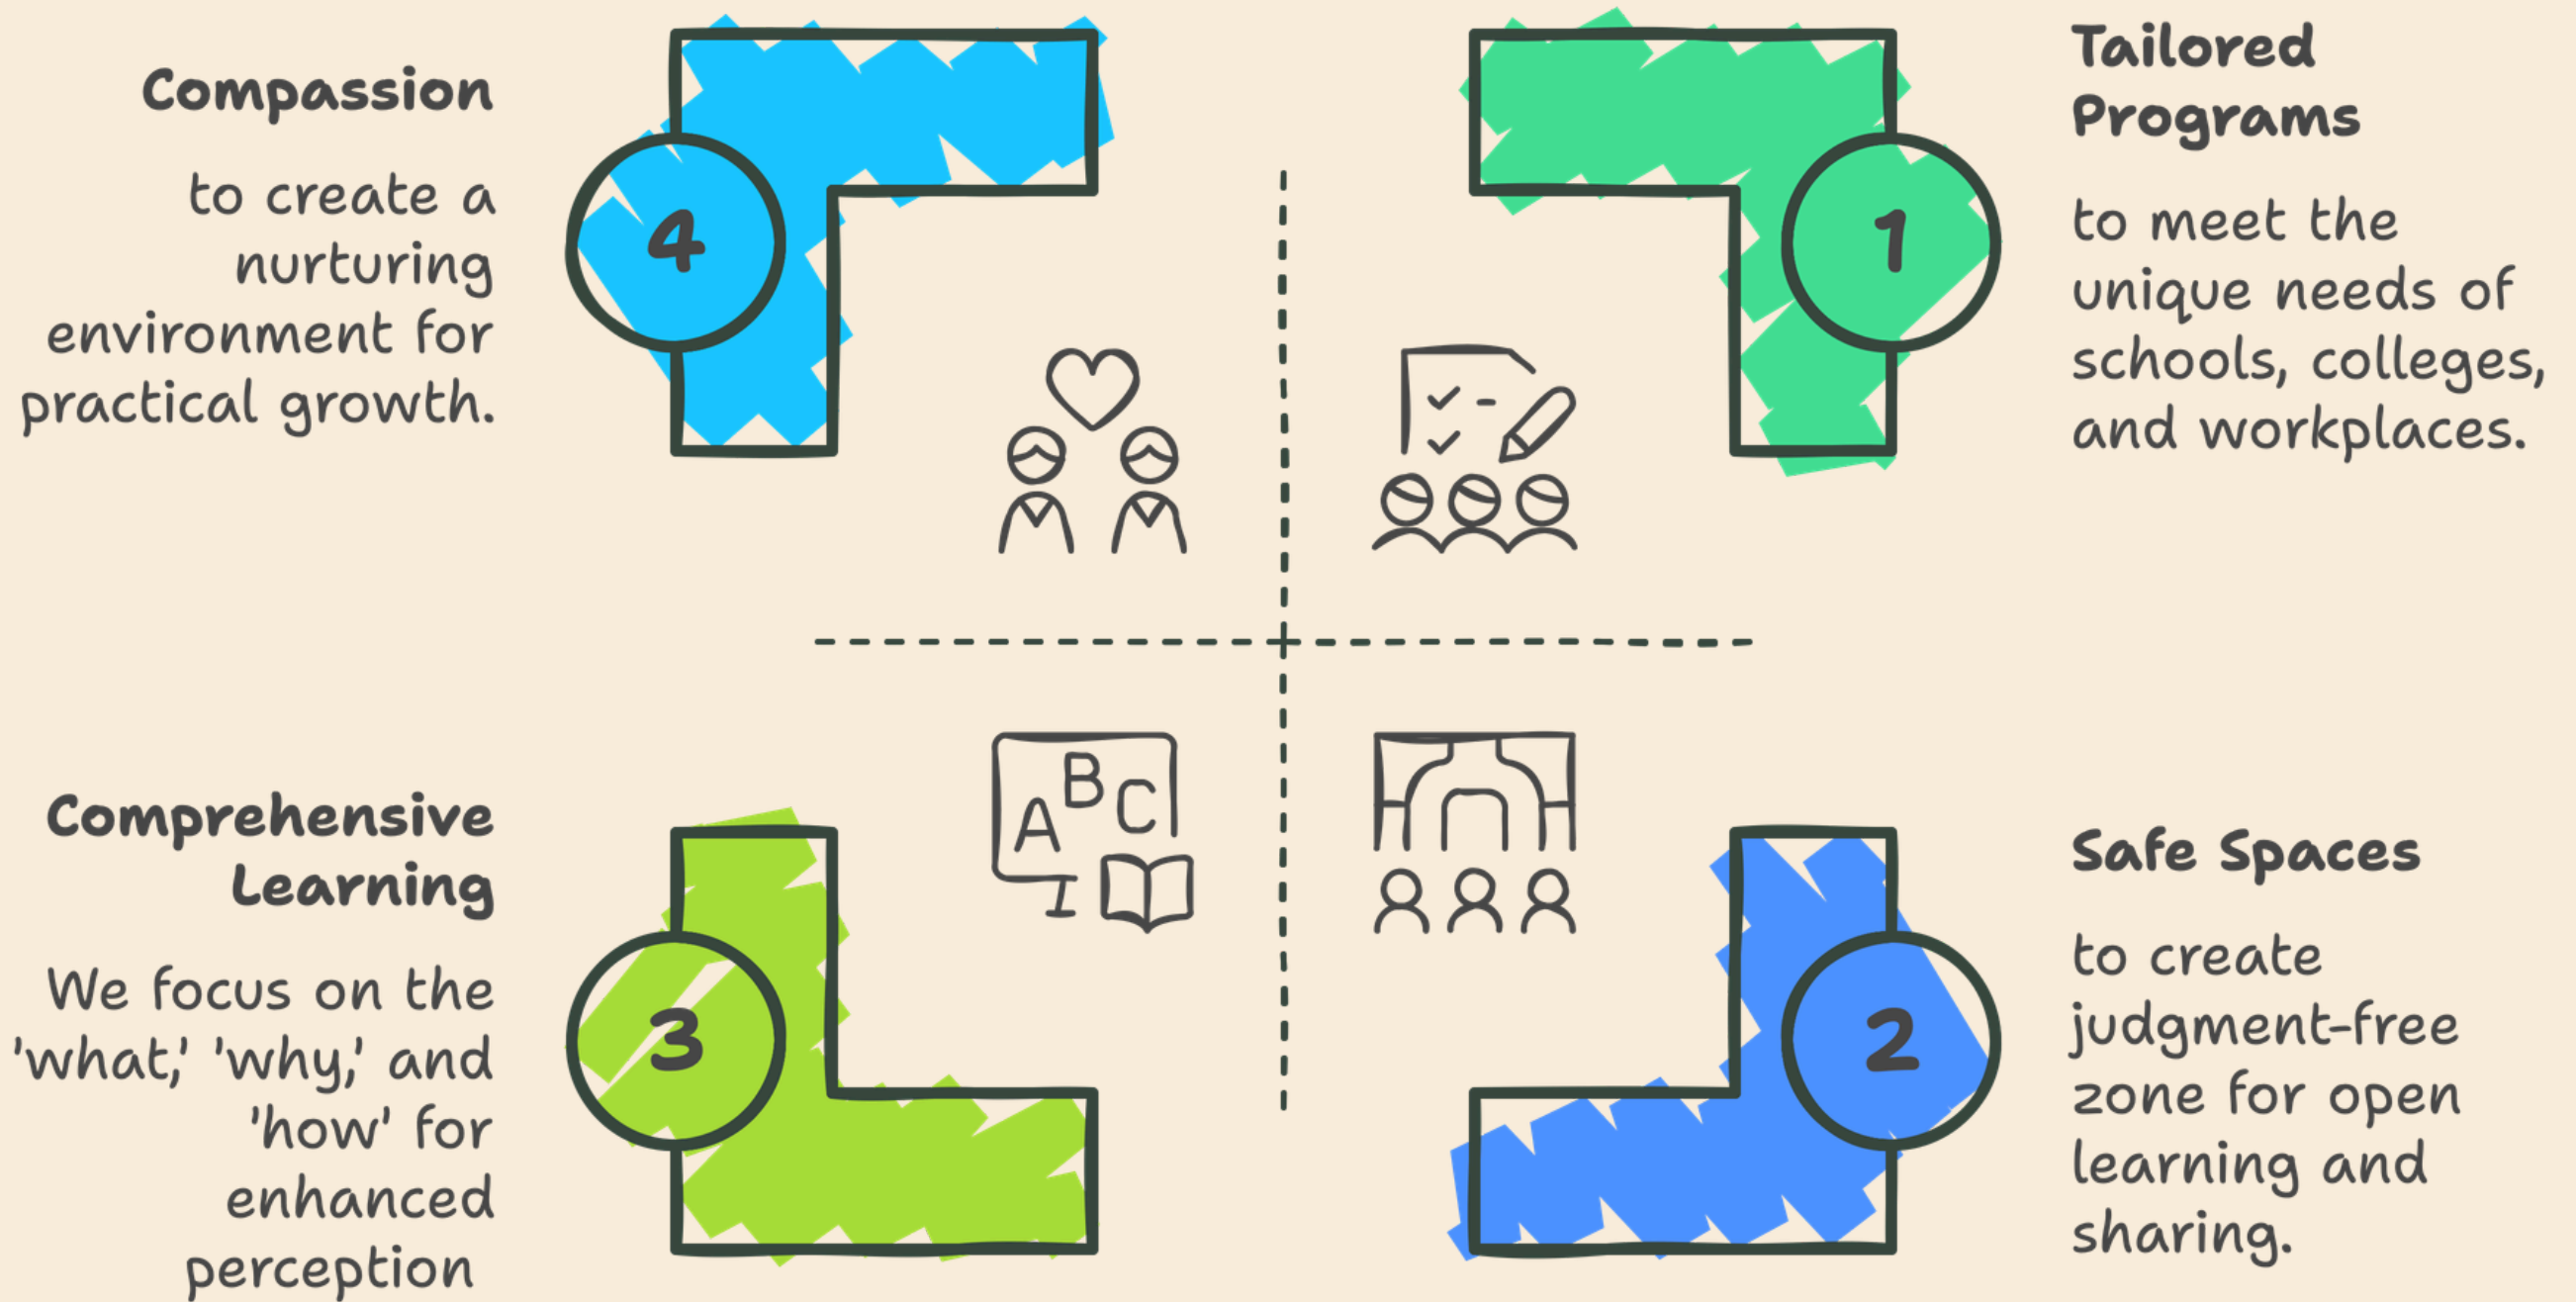

Delivering accurate, age-appropriate information on sexual health, reproduction, and bodily autonomy.

Encouraging respect, inclusivity, and safe spaces for all

WHAT SETS US APART

OUR VISION

We envision a world where individuals, regardless of their background, have the knowledge, confidence, and support to make informed decisions about their bodies, minds, and relationships.

OUR MISSION

To integrate Comprehensive Sexuality Education into mainstream educational and professional curriculums.

To build an inclusive, informed, and empathetic community that values each individual's unique journey.

To normalize open conversations about mental health and sexual well-being in all spaces.

JOIN US

Meibymithra is a movement for change. Let's work together to challenge societal norms, reshape conversations, and create a kinder, more informed society—one classroom, one workplace, and one community at a time.

MEET THE FOUNDER

Mithra Krishnamoorthy is a counseling psychologist, sex educator, and founder of Meibymithra. With over 4 years of counselling experience, dedicated the last few years to guiding individuals toward better mental health and well-being.

She graduated in MSc Counselling Psychology from the renowned Madras School of Social Work, coupled with a year long and hybrid certification course in “Comprehensive Sexuality Education and Effective Facilitation for Adolescents” from Tata Institute of Social Sciences, Mumbai.

Her unique blend of expertise in mental health and sexuality education allows her to address these deeply interconnected aspects with sensitivity and professionalism. Passionate about working with children, young adults, and adolescents, Mithra believes her ikigai—is rooted in empowering people worldwide to achieve emotional and mental wellness.

As a sex educator, Mithra is committed to reshaping the narrative around sexuality education. She emphasizes that this isn't merely about biology but encompasses a comprehensive understanding of the psychological, physiological, and social dimensions of human relationships and well-being.

Her workshops provide age-appropriate, inclusive, and culturally sensitive content, addressing topics like self-awareness, consent, boundaries, healthy relationships, and emotional intelligence.

Through schools, colleges, corporates and parenting forums, Mithra creates safe, judgment-free spaces for individuals to learn, share, and grow. She firmly believes that when people are informed and empowered, they can make confident decisions that enhance not just their own lives but their communities as well.

Beyond her professional pursuits, Mithra enjoys writing, baking, and reading. These creative outlets reflect her passion for meaningful expression and connection. Her compassion, expertise, and unwavering dedication form the heart of Meibymithra's ultimate goal: to break stigma, foster inclusivity, and build a world where every individual feels seen, heard, and valued.
